GRADUATION OF NURSES PURSUED BY BIG CROWD

DIPLOMAS BY GEORGETOWN UNI-VERSITY TRAINING SCHOOL.

The graduation exercises of the Sisters of St. Francis and the nurse class of the Georgetown University Hospital Training School were held this morning at Gaston Hall, Georgetown University. Seated on the stage, which was banked with palms, were the eight graduates and Rev. David Hillhouse Buel, S. J., president of the university; Prof. Joseph Taber Johnson and Dr. George M. Kober, the latter dean of the training school. The exercises opened with an overture, "Raymond." which was rendered by the Schroder Orchestra. A selection, "Woodland," was then rendered. The orchestra played "Waldmere" as the graduates marched into the hall and upon the stage. Rev. David Hillhouse Buel, S. J., conferred the diplomas. The orchestra rendered a serenade. "Moonlight."

Prof. Joseph Taber Johnson then deliver-ed an address to the graduates. He said. in part: "In October, 1879, I had the pleas-ure to deliver the introductory address to the first nurses' training school ever established in our city. Dr. J. E. Toner, who was a steadfast friend of our university. was a steadast friend of our university, was the president of the school, and M.s. Jane C. Hitz was its originator and moving spirit. The object of the school was new in Washington, and there were many who prophesied failure of the enterprise. After several years of work the Washington Di-rectory for Nurses, which was never able to supply the ever-increasing demand, was

"This is supposed to be, and is, an occa-sion for congratulation and advice, and in the name of your instructors, who have lectured to you for three years, and of the Sisters, who have trained you, and of your many friends. I take pleasure in extending to you their heartiest congratulations upon your graduation, and their best wishes for future success. Perhaps the best ad-I could give you would be to be true to all the good advice you have already re-ceived from your lectures and from Sisters Pauline, Geraldine and Edward. 'Remember and be true, and your success will be cer-tain, especially keeping in mind your lecture on the ethics of nursing Dreams Not Realized.

"The sentimental dream of fair women or brave men has seldom materialized in this active and very practical age, and the dreamers have mostly fainted by the wayside, or have been weeded out by the business-like superintendents of the training business-like superintendents of the schools as impractical impossibilities. Sensitive place to hard timent has largely given place to hard work and hard study. None of these young women could have passed our examinations and received their diplomas from the hands of the president of the university here to-day if they had been sentiment dreamers. They have done much hard work and richly deserve the recognition which they have just now received.

"Something more is expected of a nurse than her skilled labor. There is a certain amount of tact, sympathy and kindness that comes from the heart which money cannot buy or even pay for. Some of the most successful nurses and those who are held in most large and grateful recommend. held in most loving and grateful remem-brance by their patrons are not those who stood the highest in their classes or were the most proficient in their technical hos-pital duties, but were those who added to pital duties, but were those who added to a fair degree of these qualifications that patience, long-suffering, tenderness, loving kindness, gentleness and charity so emphasized and commended in the Good Book and taught and exemplified by the Good Physician. These very valuable qualities are not discovered by the nurses' training teachers, either at the entrance or the final examinations, but the nurse who enters examinations, but the nurse who enters into this life without them and a certain amount of love for humanity had better hang a milistone about her neck and jump into the depths of the sea than continue her drudgery just for the sake of the money there is in it. "A nurse's life, then, is not to be all sentiment or all business, but a humane and gentle blending of the two opposing forces

Mr. Ernest Lent followed with a 'cello solo, "Song to the Evening Star." Each of the graduates was presented with a gold medal by Dr. George M. Kober, the dean. The exercises closed with a selection and march. "The Fortune Teller," and "My Own United States," by the orchestra.
The graduates were: Misses Edith Merry, The graduates were: Misses Edith Merry, Virginia; Elizabeth Hemler, Pennsylvania; Lillie M. Crumbaugh, Virginia; Lillian N. Welker, Indiana; Grace S. McCarthy, Pennsylvania; Lela M. Montgomery, Virginia; Sister Mary Jane O. S. F., Ireland; Sister Mary Baptista, O. S. F., Rhode Island

MAN WHO SHOT FELLOW WORK-

ER FINALLY ARRESTED.

The sight of a colored man being pursued through the streets in the neighborhood of 8th and E streets this morning by a crowd of men and boys, many of who were shouting, "Stop him," attracted the attention of pedestrians. "He killed a man," a boy in the crowd declared. The statement caused the pursuers to display greater activity.

The pursued, fearing violence, turned and retraced his footsteps to the Washington stables, 418 and 420 8th street, where he had shot another colored man. Policeman Grimsley of the first precinct appeared and made the arrest. The prisoner gave his name as Giles Joel. He had shot Noan Goggins in the right thigh while they were engaged in a war of words in the stable.
"I didn't know I had shot him," the prisoner said, "and I was running to feach a telephone and send word to my wife about

Assault With Intent to Kill. Joel was taken to the first precinct station and held to answer a charge of assault with intent to kill. The wounded man was emoved to the Emergency Hospital, where an effort will be made to locate and extract the bullet.

Joel, who is twenty-six years of age and lives at 2040 E street, told the police that the shooting followed a dispute between Goggins and himself because the former interfered with him while he was attending to his duties on the second floor of the stable when Goggins came along with a horse and wanted him to move. He said he was cleaning a horse at the time and that Goggins desired to use the space where he was for the purpose of clipping a horse. Joel says that Goggins threatened his life and had his hand on a pitchfork when Joel took his revolver from a locker and fired it. "I had avoided trouble with Goggins several times," the prisoner stated, "and I only shot him when I feared he would attack me with the pitchfork." ing to his duties on the second floor of the being out of order. It was stated at the ently in no danger. Unless bond is furnished for the appear ance of the prisoner he will be held at the station until tomorrow morning, when he will be taken to the Police Court.

Joel added that he bought the weapon

AGAINST THE CANTEEN

SOLDIERS' HOMES RESTRICTED BY THE SUNDRY CIVIL BILL.

The House yesterday adopted an amend ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 13, 1906. ment to the sundry civil bill offered by Representative Bowersock of Kansas pro viding that no part of the appropriation should apply to any national soldiers' home

Mr. Gardner though the government should throw "around the old soldier, the weak old soldier, the decrept old soldier," its arms of protection and make the evening of his life one of uprightness and sober-

Mr. Sullivan took exception to a state-ment of Mr. Gardner that the canteen was nothing more than a saloon. He said the panothing more than a saloon. He said the patrons of the canteen were made up of the "choice and selected spirits," who had fought in one war, many in two wars, and he thought it would be doing an injury to the old soldier to take his "quor in the "evening of his life." When it is shown that beer contains but two per cent alcohol he thought it a hardship upon the old soldiers to deprive them of the little stimulant which they crave. Mr. Sullivan further said that it was not a question between prohibition and the saioon, but it was a question of theory against practice.

Mr. Goulden, as a member of the board of trustees of the Bath (N. Y.) Soldiers' Home, testified to the excellent results from the canteen which it maintains. He said that every member of the board was unanimously in favor of the post exchange, unanimously in favor of the post exchange, because they believed it a step forward in the cause of temperance.

Mr. Littlefield read statistics from a number of soldiers' homes, with and with-out canteens, in which it appeared that the number of infractions the number of infractions of the rules was much larger in homes having canteens than in those without them

Other speeches against the amendmen were made by Messrs. Tawney, Stafford and Goldfogle, while the amendment was supported by Messrs. Sims and Bennett.
The amendment was adopted by a vote of

DISMISSED WITH WARNING. Boy's Exuberance Over School Victory Gets Him Into Trouble.

In their exuberance over the success of Company H in the competitive drill of the high schools several students of the winning school marked the sidewalks along P street northwest and a street car upon which they were riding with the name of the winning company the night of June 6. Some of the party, it is stated, also took electric light bulbs from the car and broke them on the street, to hear the explosion, Policeman Farquhar of the first precinct, who was going off duty at the time, took Vincent Smith, one of the party, into custody, and two charges were filed against him for defacing street car and sidewalk. After being twice continued, the case came up in the Juvenile Court today.

Policeman Farquhar testified that young Smith marked the sidewalk and the cur-tain of the car, but broke no electric light bulbs. In pleading for the defense the at-torney asked that the judge take the exuberance of the boys into consideration and not to make the record against the boy which might hurt him in his future career. "That won't hurt him. I was convicted before Judge Snell myself, when I was a boy," remarked Judge Mullowny. However, he told the boy that he had no right to thus mark up the care and that this to thus mark up the car and that this should be a warning not to celebrate vic-tories in such a way as to disregard the rights of others. He then dismissed the cases with this warning.
